About Wellington College

Wellington College is one of the world's leading coeducational day and boarding schools. Set in 400 acres of beautiful parkland in Berkshire, the College delivers an inspirational education to 1,040 pupils aged 13-18 years.

Wellington College was granted its Royal Charter in December 1853, with Queen Victoria laying the foundation stone in 1856. It is the national memorial to Britain's most distinguished military leader, the Duke of Wellington, who was described on his death by Queen Victoria as 'the greatest Englishman that has ever lived'. Prince Albert, her husband, took a shaping interest in the school and chaired governors' meetings. After his death his place was taken by the Prince of Wales, the future King Edward VII. Few schools possess such a rich heritage and such a close relationship with the Royal Family. Today, the College is renowned for being an outward-facing school with a strong international perspective. A wonderful fusion of heritage and modernity characterises the educational philosophy. The curriculum, facilities and teaching methods are constantly adapting to the challenges of preparing young people for the ever-changing world of the 21st century. Wellington College is dynamic in every sense of the word yet is rooted firmly in the five College values – Kindness, Courage, Respect, Integrity and Responsibility – values which underpin every aspect of life at Wellington. Recruitment of staff; selection of students; policies and practices; day-to-day decision making are all founded on the five values.

Our educational philosophy is focused around the traits which we want all Wellingtonians to acquire before taking their place in the adult world.

We want our pupils to be inspired by everything they do at Wellington, both inside and outside of the classroom, so they leave school as interested and interesting people. We want our pupils to adopt a genuinely intellectual approach to their academic work and to their view of the world around them, in the knowledge that a Wellington education is only the beginning of an exciting and life-long journey of learning. We want our pupils to become truly independent, as those who can think, learn and cope independently; will be the leaders and game-changers of the future. We want each and every pupil to be valued and developed as an individual, so their Wellington experience is much more than just going to school – rather, it is the journey to self. And we want our pupils to be inclusive in all dealings with other people, so they leave the College not in a bubble of privilege and elitism, but with the ability to engage with their local, national and international communities, and with a burning desire to do good in the world.

Academic Life

Wellington's academic life is rich, varied and truly outward-looking in its restless pursuit of excellence. It is a place where learning matters and 'being educated' is more than getting outstanding exam results. The journey towards independent learning begins in a Wellingtonian's very first year at the College and the Harkness philosophy lies at the heart of the school's academic approach. Each pupil has an academic tutor and feedback is given to both pupils and parents on a regular basis: the emphasis is very much on coaching and helping pupils take ownership of their academic progress. Between 2016 and 2021 Wellington College, along with many other leading schools, did not supply exam results to the league tables. However, pupils achieved stellar results. In 2021, the IB cohort achieved an incredible 41.2 average with thirteen students achieving the maximum 45 points; 73% achieved more than 40 points and 87% achieved 38+. At A Level, 25 students achieved straight A*s; across the cohort 45% of grades awarded were A*, 80% were A*/A and 96% were A*-B. 52% of the 245 students in year 13 took IB DP, and 48% A level.

Pastoral Life

Wellington prides itself on the outstanding levels of pastoral support offered to pupils. This is achieved through a proactive approach and excellent communication between the Houses, Health Centre, counselling service and staff. The College's nationally recognized Wellbeing curriculum aims to equip pupils with the tools necessary to cope with life in school as well as preparing them for a healthy, happy and successful life after school. On a day-to-day basis, it is the Houseparent in each of the 17 Houses who has overarching responsibility for the pastoral life of the boys or girls under their care.

Co-Curricular Life

There is only one Wellington College but each student has the opportunity to make it their very own school. With extensive choices in every part of their co-curricular life, every student has all the options to work out what will make them distinct as an individual. This choice starts from the beginning of the year with College Carnival so that every student knows exactly what's on offer.

Arts

Arts sit at the heart of the Wellington Community and its drive to create exciting individuals. Wellington is an Artsmark Gold school, and well on track to achieve the highest accolade of Platinum status. Every Wellingtonian is involved, from the Third Form onwards, in the imaginative and dynamic Arts Programme, which seeks to inflame their creative imagination and to make the very most of their artistic talent and potential. The success of these arts are celebrated in the annual Wellington Arts Festival, which opens the doors to the national community and sees the College's home grown stars perform alongside internationally renowned celebrities from the art world.

Sport

Wellington College has a 'premier league' reputation as one of the best schools for sport in the UK. With 98% of Wellingtonians regularly involved in sporting activities and matches, sport is a big part of the Wellington identity and there is a sport for every child.

Enrichment

When students have had their fill of drama, art and sport, there are clubs and societies for just about every popular hobby and interest. Intellectual interests are certainly catered for, with academic departments offering societies relating to their subject, linking raw academic hunger with that of a broad interest base. Societies such as Phil-Thy (Philosophy and Theology), Classics Society, World History Society and BioSoc attract pupils from outside their departments too.

Global Citizenship

At Wellington College, character development is an essential part of the education provision. The Global Citizenship Team helps students to understand their role in the world and to aid their transition to empowered and engaged social change-makers who will have a positive impact in society.

Wellington College International Limited

Wellington College International (WCI) supports partners with shared values and passion for delivering a ‘Wellington’ education, establishing world class schools in premium locations. WCI schools are genuinely outstanding and distinctively Wellington.

Decision-making is devolved to the frontline to give leaders at all levels a sense of ownership. It is assumed that decisions can be made at school level unless explicitly stated in the governance handbook as group standards or governance decisions.

All schools carry the same Wellington College name and therefore share the same reputation. As a group, there is a strong desire to combine the advantages of school level autonomy and group level expertise.
